

WHAT DO YOU BRING TO THE TABLE? PROGRAM COORDINATOR

Poster made by: Kiritika Rana

What is a Program Coordinator?

A program coordinator is an employee or volunteer who helps an association or organization. The coordinator oversees the employees for the employer and has jobs from planning to coordinating projects.

Season 2
Episode

4

Gabrielle interviews Ben

Who should be apart of this role?

A person who should be apart of a coordinator role for an organization is a person like Ben. A person who loves to learn more about food systems, agriculture, and food.

People who are usually surrounded by agriculture or food are the best fit for these types of roles. Of course, candidates must have a degree in agriculture to get these types of roles. A person who cares about the environment and sustainability will also be a great fit as a program coordinator.

More about Ben's Workplace

Ben has been working for the Ontario Fruit Vegetable Organization Growers Association. This association supports the rights of farmers and vegetable farmers for the past 160 years. While doing other projects, Ben also manages the association's social media account as mentioned on their website.

Are you interested in being a program coordinator for an organization?